READING

PREPARATION TO CEFR LEVEL A1

Foreign Language Department wants to improve
English to international standards.

Preface

Daily reading is intended to be used to facilitate and learning of English for grade 1 students. Students will read sentences and vocabulary found in lessons and everyday life. With this practice, students will develop English reading skills and more effectively.

The author hopes that students will have a good vocabulary and reading background coupled with good likes and attitudes towards learning English. Resulting in students being able to use English better in the future.

What can you do with an A1 level in English?

An A1 level of English would be sufficient for very simple interactions, for example as a tourist in an English-speaking country. An A1 level would not be sufficient for other academic or professional purposes.

According to the official CEFR guidelines, someone at the A1 level in English:

1. Can understand and use familiar everyday expressions and very basic phrases aimed at the satisfaction of needs of a concrete type.
2. Can introduce herself and others and can ask and answer questions about personal details such as where she lives, people she knows, and things she has.
3. Can interact with other people in a simple way provided the other person talks slowly and clearly and is prepared to help.

A1 level English skills in detail

The official can-do statements are broken down into smaller chunks for teaching purposes. This more detailed skill breakdown can help you assess your own English level, or help a teacher assess a student's level. For example, a student at the A1 level in English will be able to:

- introduce himself simply and use basic greetings.
- tell where he and others are from and give a basic description of his city.
- talk simply about family and colleagues, describing their appearance and personalities.
- discuss clothing at a basic level and ask sales clerks simple questions about it.

- talk about favorite foods and make simple orders for take-out food.
- talk about daily activities and arrange meetings with friends and colleagues.
- describe current weather conditions and suggest activities according to the weather forecast.
- talk in general terms about his health and describe common medical symptoms to a doctor.
- describe the location of his home and give simple directions.
- talk about his hobbies and interests and makes plans for fun activities with friends or colleagues.
- complete basic transactions at a hotel, including checking in and checking out.
- discuss common products, make basic purchases and return faulty items.

The Hot Air Balloon Show

One day, Rachel went to a hot air balloon show. The giant balloons were made of brightly colored fabric called nylon. They were attached to large baskets that people could ride in. The balloons had flames that let off hot air to keep the balloons inflated. When Rachel stood close to a balloon, she felt the hot air on her face. At the end of the show, all of the balloons lifted off into the sky.
